

COUNTRY WATCH

Western Weekly:

7th November 2014

Colleagues,

Alan and Olie assisted with loose ponies from Barton Common working with local residents and local partnership agencies. The ponies had been loose for over 7 hours and could have caused a serious accident to unsuspecting motorists. Thank you to all that assisted and helped locate and round up these ponies.

This week we saw a £14,000, 1 ton mini-dumper and a £15,000, 1.5 ton mini digger stolen from a construction site near Holbury, both plant machinery was fitted with Tracker and have been successfully located and recovered in Essex, one male was arrested and is currently being investigated by Police. This just highlights the importance of marking and securing your equipment and machinery. Please contact Country Watch if you would like further details on a broad range of security products as we can often offer the products at cost price (as agreed by the manufacturers).

Sgt Debby Holman has been very busy the past two days travelling around Hampshire meeting the Country Watch team across the county, more next week about this.

We are well into the shooting season and now that the nights have drawn in, please could I ask that you notify us on 101 if you are conducting pest control in the dark hours as we have experienced a couple of incidents this week whereby Response Officers have been attending rural locations searching for land owners to establish who is shooting what. If you are updating us, thank you.

Kind Regards

Scott Graham
