

COUNTRY WATCH

Western Weekly:

29th May 2014

Colleagues,

This week has seen the team spend two days at the Highclere Game fair, promoting Country Watch and educating people in rural crime issues, site security and property marking. Despite the damp weather on the Monday we spoke to a lot of people and people were interested in the message we were sending.

As you will see from the below, rural theft, particularly from outbuildings is still very much on the radar, with power tools being stolen from sheds, cars and vans.

I have today received a report from someone in the Nursling area regarding some unexplained injuries to horses. Usually unexplained injuries are as a result of horses being spooked by something and coming to grief with an obstacle or fence in their own field. It is probably the case in this instance, however, if you have horses or livestock in the Nursling area and have seen anything suspicious or they have suffered unexplained injuries would you please drop me an email with details.

Kind Regards

Debby Holman
Western Country Watch Sergeant
