Western Weekly:

31stOctober 2014

Colleagues,

This week has seen the arrest of a male in the Rockbourne area by Country Watch officers engaged on a proactive rural operation to target poaching activity. The male is currently out on bail pending further enquiries. If you should spot any suspicious activity of this nature please call it in on 101.

This week we have heard of several incidents of deer and other animals being targeted with a cross bow in the Holbury/Blackfield/Fawley areas. If you should see anyone wandering around with a cross bow, they could well be committing offences or causing unnecessary suffering to animals. Again, please call it in on 101.

This week, I personally have been busy, covering for Scott who is away on annual leave and planning and preparing to take over the Northern Country Watch team to add to the Western team. In any period of change, there will always be a bedding-in period while we work to provide the best service we can to our rural communities. Please bear with us during these changes and feel free to give feedback where appropriate – I am always happy to receive your emails. The newsletter will continue to be published and sent out on a regular basis, although the format may change a little as we bring Northern and Western areas together and strive to achieve cohesiveness with the integration of the two teams.

Kind Regards

Debby Holman Western Country Watch Sergeant
